HEAVENLY MOMENTS

MAYAN WEDDING

The Mayan wedding is a traditional ritual, with prayers in the Maya language. Explanations and translations are provided in Spanish or English.

Accompanied by Maya musical instruments and songs, the wedding couple walks to the altar to receive a first blessing, while copal incense cleanses and purifies the surroundings. The celebration starts with a Maya prayer. Conches are then blown asking for the gods' permission and blessings from the four cardinal points. A sacred Balché drink is blessed with copal incense, and then offered and shared to feed the souls.

The wedding couple offers corn and cocoa to the Maya gods to help create a beautiful relationship with one another. They are blessed with white and yellow flower petals representing the sun and the moon, man and woman, symbolizing the union of their lives.
